

Connecting Sales and Service: Client Services Manager

Headquartered in Green Bay, Wisconsin, we believe a great place to work includes Teamwork, Passion, Compassion and Empowerment. Being in business nearly 30 years says something about our people, staying power and value to the market.

Words that describe our people and company today include:

- Consistent, reliable growth as an organization
- Significant investment in leadership training
- Specific plans to support our continued growth

Learn more about us by visiting: <http://www.cherneymicro.com/about-us>

We are seeking a qualified Client Services Manager to continue our growth through their own skill and a team of driven account managers. The ideal candidate for this role will have a strong ability to talk the science of microbiology and chemistry, in addition to having a strong passion for customer satisfaction. This person will bring a consultative sales approach that supports their leadership capabilities. As the leader of Client Services, they will maintain a collaborative culture that maintains and strengthens the client experience.

Our preferred candidates will have examples of skills that include: collaboration, communication skills, leadership/management, coaching / development, and compliance. A Bachelor's degree or 3-5 years in experience in microbiology or chemistry is preferred.

Please email all inquiries and resumes to hr@cherneymicro.com